BY SARAH PEARSONS

To this day, my grandparents still laugh when they tell the story of how I used to bless the food as a little girl. They said I would bow my head and close my eyes to pray, and then I would begin to thank the Lord for EVERY SINGLE item on the table. I was just so hungry and excited that I didn't want to forget about anything on my plate. You can imagine this took forever, so halfway through the prayer, I would open one eye just enough to make sure I remembered every side and every condiment. "Lord, thank You for the turkey and the green beans and the sweet-potato casserole, and those rolls, and that butter" One time I stopped in the middle of the prayer and exclaimed, "Ew! What's that?"

Psalm 37:3 says, "Trust in the Lord and do good; dwell in the land, and feed on His faithfulness." In this passage, the psalmist reveals a great truth to us: spiritual food is just as real and important as natural food. If you want to be nourished and healthy, you must eat it every single day. It's always better to start eating again before you feel like you're starving, but if you're hungry, just keep on feeding, and you will get full. Just as natural food brings energy to keep the body going, spiritual food is the fuel for your future.

The Word of God is our spiritual food, and it is delicious. Jeremiah 15:16 KJV says, "Thy words were found, and I did eat them; and Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart." The Message translation reads, "When your words showed up, I ate them—swallowed them whole. What a feast!" If you always fill up on junk food, you won't have room for anything good. But if you eat all the greens and veggies and fruits that you're supposed to in a day, you won't desire the bad stuff. Listening to teaching that doesn't bring you abundant life is like taking in empty calories. Check the label on your food! Is it full of additives and preservatives that will entertain your soul but leave you weak? Or is it real and raw and able to build you up and make you strong? Ingesting words of faith and victory is like eating fine food. The quality of the word that you eat will determine the quality of life that you live.

How you eat is just as important as what you eat. Doctors have found that eating on the go is not the best for your health.

SONG OF SOLOMON 2:4 MSG

One of my least favorite things to do is to rush through a good meal without taking time to savor it. Psalm 34:8 says, "Oh, taste and see that the Lord is good." To taste means to savor or to enjoy completely. We shouldn't rush through our time with the Lord like driving through a fast-food restaurant. He is not to be endured; He is to be enjoyed. I want to enjoy Him completely. I want to encounter His presence. I want to have an experience with Him.

Real foodies don't eat for convenience's sake; they eat for experience. When I travel, I do a little research to find out where the top restaurants are in the area. I endeavor to eat pretty healthy, so when I'm on the road, I like to look for farmto-table restaurants that serve locally grown produce and natural meats. The food tastes so much better to me because it comes straight from farms nearby and hasn't been sitting on grocery-store shelves for months. And on top of that, I get excited about the dinner experience.

With the Lord, you will always have a fine-dining experience. Remember that old song we used to sing in church, "He brought me to His banqueting table, and His banner over me is love." That verse comes from Song of Solomon 2:4. The God's Word translation says, "He leads me into a banquet room and looks at me with love." Before you will even approach His table, you must believe that He loves you. If you are full of condemnation, you will not come. If you are always conscious of your sin and mindful of insecurities, you will not come. If you think you don't measure up or you've messed up too big, you'll stay at the kiddie table and refuse to accept His invitation. It takes courage to come. It takes faith to believe that you have a seat at the table, that you have something to bring to the table, and that you are always welcome at the table.

As you open the door to His banqueting room, you have to see Jesus with His arms open wide to you and a smile on His face. If you've missed it, repent, cry out for mercy, and then MOVE ON and take your seat. Don't miss out on the main course! He will never hang your sin over your head: His banner over you is love. The Message translation of Song of Solomon 2:4 reads, "All I want is to sit in his shade, to taste and savor his delicious love. He took me home with him for a festive meal, but his eyes feasted on me!"

Oftentimes when I've been invited to a dinner party, I ask the host, "Is there anything I can bring?" I never want to show up empty-handed. Neither do I want to show up empty-handed when I take my seat at the Lord's table. The two things that I can bring are my heart and my faith. Hebrews 10:22 says, "Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith." There are two things we need when we come into His presence: a heart that genuinely loves Him, and faith that is fully sure of Him.

Jesus is the Master Chef. He has spent all of His time in the kitchen preparing the perfect meal for you. In fact, He slaved over it: took stripes just for you, went to the cross just for you, laid down His life just for you. He did all the work! Now He rings the dinner bell and shouts, "IT IS FINISHED! COME AND GET IT!"

Now, there sits before you a dish full of healing, a pitcher of joy, a plate of peace, a platter of protection and prosperity. Will you come and eat? Grace sets the table. Faith eats!

I have found that nothing on earth satisfies my soul like a meal with Jesus.

excuses."

If you read on, you will find that all of the excuses seemed like pretty legitimate reasons not to show up for dinner. But Jesus didn't accept any of them. He summed the story up with this, "I tell you all that none of those who were invited will taste my dinner!" (v. 24).

He is the only One who can completely satisfy and still leave me hungry for more. Psalm 107:9 NIV says, "For He satisfies the thirsty and fills the hungry with good things."

Although the table has been set with plenty on it to appease your appetite, God will never force you to eat. In His grace, He will bring you to His banqueting table, but you still have to eat by faith. It is easier said than done: in Luke 14:16-18 GNT, Jesus tells the parable of one great dinner: "There was once a man who was giving a great feast to which he invited many people. When it was time for the feast, he sent his servant to tell his guests,

"I will sit at the table you've prepared for me, Here I am safe from the enemy. I will feast on your love and your mercy, For death has lost its hold on me!"

"YOU RESTORE MY SOUL"

'Come, everything is ready!' But they all began, one after another, to make I refuse to miss out on the feast He has set before me. I want everything Jesus came to give me. The Lord gave us a verse to a song that says:

I will sit at the table you've prepared for me, Here I am safe from the enemy. I will feast on your love and your mercy, For death has lost its hold on me!

Psalm 23:5 says that He has prepared a table for you even in the presence of your enemies here on earth. That means even in the midst of fear or doubt, even in the presence of people who are against you, even in toughest times, you have a safe place to go. Sit down at the King's table.

> This is a picture of rest and real faith rests in God. Take time to slow down and savor His goodness. Do like what I did as a little girl. Get excited about your food! Take a good look at everything Grace has set on the table. See the spread that He has set before you. Recall all that He has done for you. Find out from the Word everything that He has set before you, and then close your eyes and start thanking Him for every item on your plate. Psalm 103:2 MSG says, "O my soul, bless God, don't forget a single blessing!" As you thank God, you are feeding on His faithfulness. Grace has set the table. Faith eats everything on the plate. Come and find your seat. It's dinner time y'all. Let's eat!

PREPARE FOR TAKEOFF

I BEGAN LEARNING TO FLY AIRPLANES AS A SENIOR IN HIGH SCHOOL, AND WHILE MOST YOUNG PEOPLE THAT AGE WOULD JUMP AT THE OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN TO FLY, I WASN'T OVERLY THRILLED ABOUT IT. I ONLY STARTED TAKING LESSONS BECAUSE MY GRANDFATHER (WHO WAS THEN AND IS STILL A HIGH-TIME PILOT AND A LOVER OF ALL THINGS AVIATION) HAD OFFERED TO PUT ME THROUGH FLIGHT SCHOOL. HE TOLD ME HE BELIEVED IT WAS A SKILL THAT I WOULD ONE DAY NEED IN MINISTRY. SO I TRUSTED HIM, KEPT ALL MY APPREHENSIONS TO MYSELF, AND AGREED TO START FLYING.

个

The lessons began, and suffice it to say, I got off to a turbulent start. Right away I felt inadequate and intimidated, failing to really comprehend the basic concepts of flight. After about twenty hours of flight instruction, the time came for me to solo, which meant I would be in the airplane all alone for the first time. But instead of feeling excited to be in that moment, all I felt was drastically unprepared and more nervous than I'd ever been before.

Theoretically, it would be very easy. All I was required to do was two touch-andgo landings then a third landing to a full stop. But it didn't go well. On my first pass around the pattern, I didn't even make it all the way down to the ground. The second time around, determined to actually make contact with the runway this time, I came down so hard that when the wheels hit the ground, I ballooned back up in the air like a rubber ball. I bounced up and down the runway until I regained control, and then powered up to do it all over again. The second landing was better, but not by much. On the next go around, I looked out the cockpit window and saw a fire truck down below pulling up on the taxi way, and I figured either someone saw the first landing and thought they'd better call for help in case it got worse, or perhaps someone had called them preemptively before I ever took off. Either way, it didn't do much to boost my confidence. I managed to complete the solo, but it wasn't pretty, and I didn't walk away that day feeling like a better pilot. I walked away just thankful to be walking away.

Later in my training, it was time for me to cross-country solo, which was even more nerve racking than the first. This time I would actually have to leave the airport pattern, plan a course that included one or more legs of at least fifty nautical miles, and return safely. I had so little confidence in my ability to do any of this correctly that I found an airport that was fifty-one miles away and located just off the same highway that my home airport was on. I essentially "drove" from one airport to the other, keeping a watchful eye on the highway just beneath me. After I flew that route a few times, I decided to be brave and plan a trip that would require actual navigation. Less than half an hour into that flight, I was completely and utterly lost. Unable to pull over and ask for directions, I tried to figure out on my own where I was and where I was headed, but nothing was making sense to me. By the grace of God and with some help from Air Traffic Control,

I made it back home just as the sun was setting. When I walked into the lobby of the flight school, I saw my instructor waiting there for me. "How'd it go?" he asked.

"Fine," I answered as I speed-walked past him and headed straight for my car. I never told him I got lost, and it was a very long time before I told anyone else about it either. I was embarrassed. I was rattled. But most of all, I was afraid. So, shortly after that, I quit flying, convinced that I just wasn't cut out for it.

A couple years later, I talked myself into going back to flight school, but only to find that my time away hadn't helped anything, and I was no better than when I had tried before. Somehow I did manage to get my private pilot's license, and I even went on to get my multi-engine and instrument ratings, narrowly passing my check rides each time. But still, I had no confidence in the cockpit and continued to make big mistakes, which only added to my fears and the belief that I had no business flying airplanes. So in August of 2002, I quit. Again.

In November of 2009, almost a year before Sarah and I launched into our ministry, the Lord dealt with us to take a step of faith out of the commercial aviation system and to trust Him to provide us with an airplane to travel in as we ministered around the United States. Well, we did and He did. We began the ministry in September of 2010, and less than six months later, we were blessed with a beautiful twinengine Cessna. Then, two years later, we were blessed again with yet another airplane-a Citation 500 jet. Within the first two years of this ministry, we'd been given not one but two airplanes! This was miraculous, and we were so thankful.

When we got the jet, we turned around and gave away the twin engine to a ministry that had been believing God for their airplane. A couple years later, the Lord led us to give the jet to another ministry. Of course, this meant that we would be without an airplane, but we'd already seen the Lord give us two, so we thought it would be only a short while before the next one would land in our laps. But in June of 2016, after two years or more of being on the airlines again, Sarah and I finally had an honest conversation with each other about what we believed was potentially keeping us from receiving the airplane God wanted us to have.

"Do you think that it has anything to do with Him telling you to start flying again?" she asked. As much as I didn't want the answer to be yes, I knew that it was.

About a year prior to that conversation, I had sensed in my heart that the Holy Spirit was leading me to get back into my flight training and to finish what I had started all those years ago. But I wasn't just reluctant to obey; I was outright obstinate and unwilling to comply. Months and months went by with this leading still in my heart while I tried my best to ignore it or wish it away. But He never left me alone about it. Finally, I got honest with God, with my wife, and with myself when I said, "Do you want to know why I don't want to fly again? I'm afraid! I'm afraid I'm not going to be any good. I'm afraid I'm going to mess up again. I'm afraid to be the guy flying with my family in the back. I'm afraid."

Being afraid was bad enough. But allowing that fear to stop me from obeying God was something I was unwilling to live with any longer. I decided then and there that no matter how I felt about it and regardless of my past experience, I would obey God. That day in June, Sarah and I settled in our hearts that we would do whatever it took as a family for me to fly again, believing that this simple act of obedience would give God access into our lives to provide us with the equipment we needed to get our job done. That same week, a dear friend of our family who happened to be a well-qualified flight instructor came to me and told me that he believed God wanted me to resume flying and offered to instruct me at no charge. So I took him up on his offer and made plans to fly again.

What happened in the days that followed was nothing short of a miracle. On an early August morning, I got back in the cockpit, and from the moment we fired up the single engine of that little Cessna 172, I experienced something completely different than I had previously. It was joy. I was actually enjoying it! Not only that, but my instructor was very complimentary and excited at how well I was doing, much to his surprise and much more to mine. I landed that day with a smile on my face and an excitement about going up again.

We flew together that entire month, and each time we went up, it got easier and I got better. One day we were out flying, and he had me land at the same airport I had done my first solo at all those years ago. "Take me to the hangar," he said. "I'm going in, and you're going solo."

I dropped him off, and as I taxied out to the threshold of the runway, I felt the anointing to fly and the peace of God come all over me sitting in that cockpit all by myself. I was a far cry from the nerve-racked teenage boy > that sat in that same spot once before. I prayed, powered up, took off, and did three beautiful landings. It was a miracle, and if you had seen my landings all those years ago, you'd say it was a miracle too!

2012 Second ministry plane - Citation 500

As I've continued to fly over the last few months, I've passed my biennial flight review, received my complex multi-engine and aircraft endorsement, and what's more, I have come to enjoy it more than I ever dreamed

I would have. I've even had the opportunity to share this story in church services, and when I do, I find it hard to hold back the tears each time. God has so clearly gone to work in me both to will and to do His good pleasure (Phil. 2:13).

I've shared this story with you for two primary reasons. First, I want my experience to inspire you to go back and face again whatever God has called you to do. If you've got a list of excuses for putting it off, then it's time to get honest with Him and with yourself. If you've been afraid, then deal with the fear instead letting it deal with you. Maybe you're like me, and you've had a bad experience with it the first time which has caused you to be reluctant to go for it again. But you must never let your experience limit your expectation. The Bible says in Psalm 27:14 that if you will be of good courage, then God will strengthen your heart; and if there is anything you're going to need, it is a strong heart. Because I was afraid, it took courage for me to begin flying airplanes again, but when I took that first step, God came in and strengthened my heart, flushing out all that fear and filling me with peace and joy. I know He'll do the same for you.

The second reason I'm sharing these things with you is because I believe the Lord instructed me to make the partners and friends of our ministry aware of the steps we are taking in the field of aviation and what we are presently believing God for. I am asking you to be in agreement with me as I continue my training, and to trust God to equip us with the right airplane to get the job done. I am looking forward to keeping you updated as we progress in this faith project.

My friends, there's a unique feeling that comes with sitting in the airplane, looking down the center line of the runway, and pushing the throttle to full power. There's nothing like that moment when the thrust moving you forward overcomes the weight holding you down. But every takeoff must first be prepared for. I believe it is the will of God for you and I to take off in the coming new year and to ascend to new heights in His plan for our lives and for this ministry. So let's begin now fueling up on His Word, finding out from the Holy Spirit what heading we are to take, and getting rid of excess weight and drag that would hinder our lift. If you'll make all the necessary preparations, then soon you, too, will hear the words from God that every pilot loves to hear: "You're clear for takeoff."

In April of 2016, the PMI family took a big step of faith in obedience to the Lord with launching the LegacyTV broadcast. Currently, LegacyTV is a weekly edition broadcast that airs multiple times per week on the Believer's Voice of Victory network. But one thing is clear moving forward: we are called to preach His Word through LegacyTV 365 days a year. Jesus must be preached to everyone, everywhere, every day. Project365 is a partner project for anyone who wants to get on board with this assignment.

To create 365 episodes of LegacyTV, we are believing God for all the equipment and personnel that it takes to capture, process, and distribute daily broadcasts. We are aggressively moving towards making the switch from weekly broadcasts on one network, to daily broadcasts on more stations. This change will increase the impact of this ministry significantly, giving Jesus an open door into the hearts and homes of people all over the world.

We want to thank you, partners, for sowing into Project365 and preaching Jesus with us around the world. If you have not already partnered with us in this project, or you would like more information, please visit pearsonsministries.com/project365.

CELEBRATING A YEAR OF GOD'S GOODNESS

God has been good to us!

As we look back over 2016, we can't help but stand in awe of the Lord. What He has done for us here at the ministry is nothing short of a miracle. His grace has come in full force on everyone here in an extraordinary way to accomplish the assignment He has given us.

This year we stepped out by faith and launched LegacyTV. We have worked harder than we ever have before, but His grace has been sufficient for us. We finally realized that we shouldn't wait until everything was just right to step out and obey. We didn't have all of the television equipment, staff, talent, experience, or finances that they say you need to capture and create a broadcast, but we did have heart, a lot of courage, and a word from God. We found out that sometimes you just have to go for it and believe God can take your little step and turn it into a running leap! Sometimes you have to take a risk to see the reward, live your adventure, and step "out over the aching void with nothing underneath their feet but the Word of God" (Lilian B. Yeomans).

We are thanking God daily for the work He has done in and through us this year. Here are just a few highlights that we are celebrating. In April, we launched LegacyTV and have aired thirty-eight weekly broadcasts on the Believer's Voice of Victory Network. At the same time, we introduced the Legacy Studios app that has been downloaded over 12,000 times!

This year we have welcomed 300 new partners to the PMI family and over 1,300 new subscribers to The Legacy Letter. This magazine is now being sent to over 7,000 people in 50 states and 74 countries around the world. With the addition of interns and staff, we were able to begin our outbound-prayer-team calling and ministering to PMI partners around the world. We hosted our first International Legacy Weekend in Manchester, England, where we ministered to pastors and ministers from around the UK. And last, but not least, it has been a great honor to minister in 45 church services in 35 states across the US and 10 international services in Canada and England.

This has been one amazing year. God has truly been good to us. Thank you, partners, for helping us preach Jesus around the world.

Testimonies from Partners & Friends

When my husband and I were initially married and purchased our first property, we were advised to take out what was called an Endowment Life Insurance policy. This was a policy to give us life insurance and to pay off our mortgage after twenty-five years. Truthfully, we were very young and had no idea the insurance companies were in effect gambling with our money in the stock exchange. We did revert our mortgage to a repayment mortgage several years later when the market crashed. Last week, we had an unexpected letter in the post telling us that we were being refunded the money we had paid into the life-insurance policy together with several years of interest, due to the bank's misleading pitch of the policy to us. The amount is enough to pay off our credit-card debts!

We are in awe of the amazing goodness of God. He knows everything. For the first time in many years, we can say we are debt free. Thank you for taking time to care and pray for us. I pray that you all at Pearson's Ministries International are abundantly blessed, and that all of your lives overflow with an abundance of His goodness.

Early one morning when I got up from my bed, I immediately felt a terrible pain that took me to the floor. With a lot of effort, I made it to the doctor where he told me one of my kidneys was not working. He just gave me a pill to kill the pain but not to fix the problem. As soon as I got back to my house, I started playing Sarah's album Strength & Beauty in the Presence of the Healer, and I began reading my Bible medicine. I stood in faith doing this consistently for four days, and I was completely healed!

My family listens to your music often because it's so heavy with God's presence. We're also translating these songs to Spanish and sharing them in our church.

Several weeks ago, I was diagnosed with ovarian cancer stage III-C. Four days later, I had a hysterectomy and at the same time they removed a 12-centimeter ovarian mass, two liters of fluid, and a lot of matter for biopsy.

My family and I joyfully put to practice your teachings from the time when I was diagnosed, until two-and-a-half weeks later when I learned the results of the biopsies. The surgeon couldn't find any cancer. He said he searched everywhere. The biopsies all came back benign. I am healed, restored, and cancer free. Praise God!

We continue to thank God for His generosity and goodness. And we continue to thank Him for all of you.

We would love to hear what our GOOD GOD is doing in your life. Please email us at info@pearsonsministries.com with your testimonies and requests for prayer. Jeremy, Sarah, and the Pearsons Ministries team pray regularly over their partners and friends.

We want to wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas, and as our gift to you, please visit pearsonsministries.com/gift for a special new message that you can listen to online, download, or share with family and friends.
